

The changing face of accountability and assessment - 2017

Join us to explore assessment and accountability in a world after levels.

- Hear from leading voices in education, accountability and assessment.
- Hear first hand the focus for inspection in 2017-18
- Have the opportunity to ask questions that may impact on your school
- See examples of principled assessment practice in action
- Explore resources that will help your school find a way forward in 2017

10th October
Double Tree
Hilton

£120 per delegate

With Sean Harford, James Bowen and Jamie Pembroke

Agenda

9.00 - Registration

9.15 Welcome and opening

9.30 - James Bowen explores the latest NAHT guidance on assessment and considers principled assessment in schools.

10.30 -Break

11.00 -Jamie Pembroke - Key performance measures and the progress myth.

12.00 -Lunch

1.00 -Workshops exploring local practical examples in principled assessment practice.

2.00 -Break

2.15 -Sean Harford. Debunking myths in marking and assessment, Ofsted updates for 2017-18 & Q&A.

3.15 - Closing address

3.30 Finish

In association with

Ignite^{TSA}

James Bowen
NAHT
Edge

James Bowen studied history and politics at the University of Warwick, graduating with a first-class degree in 2002. After beginning his career in the finance sector, James took the decision in 2005 to become a teacher. He was quickly recognised as an outstanding classroom practitioner and fast-tracked into a number of leadership positions, including subject leader, SENCo, assistant head teacher and deputy head teacher. Most recently, James was the head teacher of a large, successful school in Hampshire before becoming the director of NAHT edge in 2016. He has significant experience of developing middle leaders within schools and is passionate about the role they play in school improvement.

Jamie Pembroke
Sig+

James Pembroke has 13 years' experience working as a data analyst and adviser in education. He spent 6 years with the Learning & Skills Council followed by 5 years in the school improvement team at Gloucestershire County Council. Since 2014 he has worked as an independent data consultant, helping schools across the country make sense of their data. He tweets, talks and blogs about data issues, speaks fluent RAISEonline, is an accredited FFT consultant and has practical experience of many of the tracking systems used in schools. Twitter. @jpembroke

Sean Harford
National Director
Ofsted

Sean Harford became Ofsted's National Director, Education in September 2015. He oversees Ofsted's inspection policy for early years, maintained and independent schools, and further education and skills. Since joining Ofsted as one of Her Majesty's Inspectors in 2003 he has worked in the School Improvement Division, School Inspection Policy and he led on organisational restructuring in 2009.

To book - www.welcometoignite.co.uk/events

Web - www.welcometoignite.co.uk

Twitter @Ignitetsa

Contact 0151 355 2047

Ignite

